

Lecturers in Japanese Language 2022-23

The Program in Japanese Studies (<http://japan.ucsd.edu/>) within the Institute of Arts and Humanities (<http://iah.ucsd.edu/>) at the University of California, San Diego is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The program coordinates a variety of campus offerings related to the culture, history, political economy, and language of Japan and offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Japanese Studies. It offers multiple levels of Japanese language courses, including advanced Japanese and Japanese for Professional Purposes.

The program invites applications for a lecturer position in Japanese language starting Fall 2022. Appointment(s) may be part-time, full-time, quarterly, annual, or biennial, with the possibility of renewal based on performance and funding availability.

Required qualifications: native or near-native proficiency in Japanese and English; an M.A. in linguistics, Japanese language, education, foreign language pedagogy, and/or other language education-related areas; and at least three years of experience teaching Japanese language courses. Preferred qualifications: experience supervising teaching assistants; a PhD in linguistics, Japanese language, education, foreign language pedagogy, and/or other language education-related areas; and experience designing and developing content-based or thematic-based language courses.

We welcome applications from those who demonstrate strong or potential accomplishments in areas contributing to diversity, equity and inclusion, and a desire to play a leadership role in advancing UC San Diego's commitment to achieving excellence and diversity. Salary is commensurate with teaching experience and is based on University of California salary scales.

Please submit a CV, student evaluations of the instructor, a teaching statement, and names of two references. In the teaching statement, please describe teaching strategies you currently use or plan to use to foster a diverse and inclusive learning experience, and to enable all students to excel and fully participate in the learning process. Applicants may be asked at a later date to submit an unedited video of recent teaching with a lesson plan.

Review of applications will begin October 1 and continue until the position is filled. Applications will be accepted electronically at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/IPF02835>.

The University of California, San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence.
